24 Hour Ambulatory "pH" Monitoring

This test you are about to have done measures the amount of acid backing up from your stomach into your esophagus or "reflux". ("pH" describes the acidity of a substance.) There are a few important things to remember while the probe is in place.

- Do not shower or take a bath while the probe is in place. The monitor MUST NOT get wet.
- There is a piece of tape around the probe showing proper placement of the probe in your nose. The tape holding the probe to your nose may come loose. If this happens and the probe comes out a small amount, swallow and push the probe back into your nose. (You should push the probe back until the tape around the probe is at the opening to your nose.) Then retape the probe in place. If the probe has come out a long way, gently pull it out and return the equipment and probe to the Center.
- You may eat your normal diet. Please do not eat candy or chew gum. Do not sip a drink throughout the day. Rather, if you are going to have a drink, please drink it all within 10 minutes.
- We want you to lead a "normal day". Do what you usually do including such activities as bike riding, house cleaning, lawn mowing, exercising, walking, or whatever you might normally do.
- It is important to record any symptoms as you experience them. To do this, press the appropriate event buttons on the Zepher recorder.

- 1. The "pill" symbol records when you are taking medications.
- 2. The "eating utensils" symbol records the beginning and end of a meal, or if you have a drink.
- 3. The "person in bed" records when you go to sleep and when you wake up.
- 4. The "heart" symbol records a feeling of heartburn or chest pain.

Note any comments you want to remember to tell us. The more we can match information to the results in the recorder, the better test results we will get.
